November Meeting Woodturning Demonstration

Making an Egyptian Box with Jim Faherty

The November KCWT meeting demonstration is "Making an Egyptian Box" with long-time KCWT member Jim Faherty. Many of you might know what an Egyptian box looks like. Don't get an Egyptian box confused with an Oriental box. For those that attended the recent Jimmy Clewes demonstration, Jimmy made an Oriental box, which is beautiful, lidded and winged. To add to the confusion, Jimmy Clewes makes an Egyptian box on one of his three terrific DVDs that we have in our Club library. These two boxes have some similarity. Jim Faherty is a master of both types and will demonstrate his skill in making the Egyptian variety.

PHOTOS from the ANNUAL AUCTION by Bud Schenke

The Kansas City Woodturners Assn. held their annual fund raising auction on October 13, 2008.

The 2008 auction was a success. We raised $5,119.50. Once again, Eddie Powers was our auctioneer, and as usual did a great job. Thanks to all the members who donated many valuable items to the auction. Thanks also to all who came and bid on all the stuff we had. Many members brought guests, and quite a few members of the Kansas City Woodworkers Guild joined us.

Since the auction began in 1999, approximately $31,000.00 has been raised for the club.

The auction committee consisting of Dick Woodhouse and Bud Schenke put in many long hours getting ready for the auction. During the course of this auction season we sent out 110 letters of solicitation and 90 follow up reminder letters. This brought in 160 items from 40 contributors, for which thank you letters, with pictures of the items on display, have been sent. The auction was attended by 66 members and guests.

Our crew on Auction night consisted of John Burrigh on the computer, Mike Erickson and Alex Garcia assisted as spotters and runners, Dick Woodhouse working with the auctioneer and Bud Schenke collecting money. Thanks to the volunteers, things went smoothly, and we were finished in a little over 2 hours.

OVERLAND PARK ARTS and CRAFTS FAIR Saturday - September 27, 2008

The Kansas City Woodturners Association had a benefit booth at the Overland Park Arts and Crafts Fair to raise money for our Club's 2009 lease payment. The cost of the booth was paid for by concerned members. Russ Blaser provided the tent and display equipment. Many members donated large and small items for display and sale. We sold many tops as well as some other beautiful items.

A total of $619.78 was raised. Many members stopped by the booth to chat and watch the store. It was a beautiful day and a fun experience for all. All unsold donated items will be returned to the donors. The items are available in the KCWT clubhouse during regular meetings and open lathe days.
